Good Crook Picture at Marion

CROOKS who were slim bats, gardenias and cut away and up late at fashionable weddings and exclusive night clubs. There's a slick little picture at the Marion tonight called "Good Intentions," with hand some Edmund Lowe as the brains of the circle. They live in the best apartments in New York, seen at the best places but they're crooks.

Lowe is never out on any of the big holds but he's the one who thought of them. Everything moves in spite until one of them decides to do a little fancy holding up on his own. The others hold him and then stick up Marguerite Churchill, the girl Lowe loves, and Regis, former multi-millionaire playboy whose father they had robbed of $150,000 earlier in the day. Lowe finds out who robbed his father and against the good advice of Lowe goes out on the street where he can be seen. Lowe is captured and bid at the exclusive Club Nocturne, but Lowe finds out all the plans.

Lowe finds out that Marguerite Churchill loves Lowe and sets out to find him and send him to the gall.

There is a thrilling little gun battle and Lowe gets away. But the crook?

Lowe is smooth. Lowe is ingratiating with that smile of his and Miss Churchill isn't too beautiful to be an unscrupulous heroine.

A good supporting cast make this picture good entertainment. H. H.

WITH EDNA S. DUTTON

LAUGHING BOY by Oliver La Farge is a story of Indian life and romance. Delightful description of Indian customs and traditions are woven into the story which if it had not been a great success it would not have been so. The book was awarded the Pulitzer prize this year.

Laughing Boy a Navajo by birth, meets Slim Girl who has had some training in an American school at an Indian festival lasting for days. Try as he will he can not shake her and despite the fact that she is not good for him when the dance is over he turns away from her to her half Navajo half Indian home. After their Indian marriage ceremony Laughing Boy and Slim Girl start their married life with the setting up of a home for her and a jewelry shop for him. The reader is shown in continuing, Slim Girl for a great many things and is moved to sympathy for her when she becomes aware that she is the object of discussion in a family gathering soon their visit to the Navajo country. Slim Girl's American training sharpens her native cunning, and the family finds little to complain of in "Laughing Boy" occasion for rejoicing, and making his life one of happiness.

Peacock Landing by W. H. Ardrey is interested in his home and his accumulating fortune he does not visit the town and Slim Girl's excuse is that she works for the wife of the mission. His deep understanding and love for his wife carries him through the trials of her life before she met him and the story takes an unexpected turn bringing it to a beautiful ending.

The author has endeavored to be as accurate as possible regarding his account of ceremonies, rites and customs and has kept as close to the story as will permit to the general pattern of Navajo life. The book is filled with details of the characters in it show Americans and the American system is there arising from the plot and not the author. The picture is entirely possible he affirms.

Gruesome Tales,
"The Outlaw Years"

A HAIRRAISING story of lawlessness in tell told Robert M. Coates a New York writer in "The Outlaw Years." It is an historical account of fantastic depredations on the Mexican Trail where traders came back from the New Orleans market and the Wilderness road where immigrants came into Tennessee and Kentucky from the east. With a horde of three women, three brothers, Big Harpe, Little Harpe and Little Harpe Wiley terrorized the territory around Knoxville. From petty thievery they developed into fiendish murderers, horrible Indians who killed out of the lust.

Meeting a tame traveler in the forest they would skin and rob him then rip his body, fill it with stones and skin it in the river. Usually they tomahawk their victims. Their most fantastic stunt was to drive a victim strapped to a horse off a cliff to his death. For this they were outlawed by the murderous outlaws of the Ohio river.

Finally Big Harpe was killed by a fellow named Stiglitz himself a suspicious character who had shielded them. It was a crime of vengeance for they had slain his family. Little Harpe escaped. Later he was recognized in the hand of Samuel Moon a Virginia born soldier who turned highwayman in the intense physical environment of the wilderness. Moon was killed by his own men for the reward on his head. Wiley Harpe was legally executed. Older highwaymen of America's dark age color the books pages in a vivid and startling story.

Historical Novels for Summer Reading

H. O. BAILLY is the author of "The Last Knight," one of the best historical novels, any or all of which would prove entertaining summer reading. They are "Knight at Arms," "Young Lovers," "The Fool" and "The Merchant Prince." His men fight in heroic enterprises and his women are beautiful. His knight know the art of doing battle and his crusades are without parallel.

In "The Merchant Prince" he has accomplished something unique. His hero John Camois is a merchant and the master of Hamptons—the wife of the house. Wornick the king maker is not a stolid character, but made from flesh. His heroine Christine is not a delicate angel but a woman with woman's vanity as well as her charm. His English are rooted in the soil. Much makes more and more money, builds the town with walls of gold, plays no man who helps him in their need and all without sentimentalism.

He is the type of man who kept England going while the wretched was brought their barren splen-

With the celebration of the 500th anniversary of the birth of George Washington as close as next year, publishers are bringing to the fore biographies of the first president. In August George Washington's biography by Mrs. Marion Minnigrove Andrews will be published by Dutton's. Mrs. Andrews is a former excursionist who has been connected with Washington's life and the route was this collection of sketches and recollections from time to time to sketch the quaint beliefs of the Virginians and tell them along with much intimate matter concerning the notable figures of Washington's period. Mrs. Andrews is the widow of the curator of the Corcoran Art gallery in Washington and is the author of "My Side in Window" and "Memories of a Poor Relation."

"Brief Candles" by Huxley

BRIEF CANDLES is made up of three short stories and a novel written from the pen of Aldous Huxley. After the fireworks is the story of a young hedger, bursting with ambition, for a badly tarnished and rather elderly writer of fiction. "The Chalkers" is a glimpse into the lives of an English middle-class family living on a small income and choosing ideals. "The Pest Cure" is something of a tragedy and deals with an unkind husband and wife and the other man.

Thrills Found in Reilly Mystery

THE REILLY murder of old John Bedford furnishes the plot for "Heads Reilly," a novel. The Jilted Fife, Bedford's death is attributed to prussic acid found in the barley water served him each night but the question arises why does the Jiltish which he feeds each night a cracker dipped in the barley water also die. The crime is well planned and is a malicious call.

Heads Reilly is based in Dutton's full publications.

Gospel Is Power of God

A SERMONETTE
BY REV. S. P. PORTER,
Pastor Emmanuel Baptist Church.

BLESSED is the man, woman, boy or girl that can boldly declare with full assurance, "I speak that I do know." What is the matter with the person that does not know that the gospel of Christ is the power of God unto salvation? What is wrong with his testimony? Ah, my dear friend, he may hear the honor rolls of Harvard and Yale, possess the eloquence of Apollo, yet his message to him is sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal. For there is no substitute for theunction of the Holy Spirit which come on all who speak that they do know. I confess I have no fear when I preach the gospel, for I know that the blood of Jesus Christ saves from sin, because I have accepted it, and it worked a divine transaction in my heart and life. Therefore, I can stand as a true witness before a world lost in sin, and with boldness declare with concreting power that I speak that, blessed be God, I do know.

I am not ashamed to preach the gospel of Christ wherever I go because I know it will do just what God decrees it will do. The person that shows that they are saved through faith in the shed blood of Christ, is not afraid to suffer because of the cross. For Christ tells us that that goes in the bargain. Brethren, the offerings of the cross is as keen today as it was in the days of old. Remember Jesus said, "If they persecute your Lord, they will persecute His servants." And ever since Ishmael, the son of Abraham according to the Hebrew, perverted Isaac, the son of promise, this persecution has continued and will continue until the righteous judgment of God is revealed.

But behold, methinks I hear some say, "I feel no persecution." Do you speak that you do know? Do you declare with the true witness of the indwelling Spirit, that the friendship of this world is empty with God? Do you speak with assurance and conviction, because you know, "If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him?" Do you with assurance of divine approval condemn the sinful, so-called innocent pleasures which satisfy the flesh and are contrary to the spirit? The servant who dares to have a true witness against the sinful, ungodly, unrighteous, deeds of man regardless of their position in society shall surely suffer the reproof of the cross. They will soon cry, "Away with him, we don't want such a man preaching to us." Why? "Because he will take away our idols." Christ knew the results of faith and true witnessing. Therefore he said, "Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake."

I would rather have the blessing of God than the praise of men. I have yet to find in all the word of God, more than one message for the lost. It may be in varied forms yet it is only one message. This one message in the gospel; that man lost in sin is saved by grace through faith in the shed blood of the lamb of God. I know it works. I have tried it and found it the true God-given remedy for all sin. I have seen the murderer try it, and rejoice in his forgiven. I have seen drunkards try it and it met their needs.

The self righteous and they were satisfied, yet, bless God, the rich and poor, the weak and strong, the living and dying, and I speak this day that I know the blood still avails to meet the needs of sinful men. And I know that my witness is true, and so do you for the very spirit of God, himself, witness to your soul that I speak the truth. Amen.

ing their opinion on wage cuts. Four of the answers and the opinion of Mr. Dickenson himself bear so directly on the merits of the local discussion that we deem their reproduction timely

George T. Johnson shoe manufacturer of Indicates New York replied: Wage cutting
or reducing income of labor is not a remedy for business depression. It is a direct and contributing cause

J. A. Carroll president of the United States Steel corporation wired this reply: Quoting from my remarks at the May meeting of the American Iron & Steel Institute, I heard a steel man say the other day that wages should come down. I said: Oh no wages are not coming down in the steel industry, make your mind up to that. If you are going out to sell your goods and eliminate your profit and expect to get it out of the men in the mills
you are greatly mistaken.

George T. Johnson shoe manufacturer of
Indicates New York replied: Wage cutting
or reducing income of labor is not a remedy
for business depression. It is a direct and
contributing cause

W. A. Shewell founder of steel manufacture of Fort Madison Iowa answered: I believe it would be a serious mistake to reduce wages as it lessens the purchasing power of the largest volume of customers and permanently will injure business

Presenting his own view Editor Dickinson in summing up the replies to Printers Ink writes: Ten years ago when I was a member of President Harding's unemployment conference run by Herbert Hoover I wrote a minority report against wage cuts
I could get only one of the fifty members to sign it—the late Samuel Gompers. Then it was almost an axiom that wage cuts would bring bad prosperity

Today a new point of view prevails
Maintaining purchasing power at the source is the most important job in the country to do for wages buy more shoes and auto mobiles than dividends

The fact that the great industrial and commercial organizations of the country have refrained from resorting to wage reduction may be taken as indicating that they do not consider it a means to the restoration of business conditions to normal. The fact that they are almost in opposition to it can hardly be construed as other than an indication of their belief that such a course would serve only to make a bad condition worse

An Airplane-Carrying Cruiser.

There may have been method in the mad ways attributed to some quarters to our delays in the London naval limitation conference in agreeing to the application of the six inch gun provision in the treaty to such cruisers as we may build under the treaty in excess of the stipulated number of eight inch gun ships.

It develops that our naval architects and engineers have already planned a six inch gun type of cruise of between 9,000 and 10,000 tons displacement which is designed to carry aircraft and permit of their operation after the manner employed on our aircraft carriers. If the six inch gun cruisers were to be built along conventional lines they would carry a main battery of twelve six inch guns but the new style cruiser, which is said to be the child of Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics is designed to carry a least six and very probably nine guns in its main battery. Were the main battery of less than six guns it is explained other nations' doubers would claim that the ship was an aircraft carrier and therefore chargeable to the aircraft allowance of this country under the treaty. That there is possibility of controversy on the subject has already been made evident. It is hinted that the London reaction to the American plan is that it the new type of ship proves to be more of an airplane carrier than cruiser and still be classed by him country as a cruiser the United States will be accused of violation of the terms of the London agreement.

A Washington dispatch says that the designing of the new type ship has been carried on in secret in the hope that its adoption by the navy department could be brought about and the first of its type completed without the admittance of other nations learning of it.
However in some way hint of it leaked out and as a result the British and Japanese admiralties are said to be somewhat excited over the American departure from the standard cruiser type. So great is the interest abroad in fact that some naval officers have hazarded the prediction that the airplane carrying cruiser will suffice us much competition among the naval powers as was manifested in battleship construction before it was limited as the outcome of the Washington conference.

Through the efforts of Rear Admiral Moffett
there is a provision in the London treaty under which twenty five per cent of our cruiser tonnage may be equipped with landing docks for planes. As we are allowed 13,000 tons of cruisers we are free thus to equip 8,000 tons of cruisers and if the new type vessel adopts the design we may thus have eight 10,000 ton cruisers armed with six inch guns and equipped for the carrying and operation of at least twenty planes each.

Washington advises are to the effect that proponents of the Moffett type of cruiser urge that it would be a formidable commerce raider. They hold that it could keep out of range of even eight inch gun convoy cruisers and dispatch planes to bomb merchantmen which if convened would not be immune to attack. The power to launch such long distance attacks they argue would go far to offset the lack of outlying naval bases in the United States.

Assuming that at the expiration of the Lon- don treaty we attain fleet parity with Great Britain we will be to that greater parity—parity in sea power? At present the British in re- spect to naval strength are to us

in vessels having a steel which makes them considerably to military use the British advantage is about this to the fact that we had the exact number of ships and tons which the British have they have an advantage by virtue of their merchant marine which we can not equal to buy. It is clearly the duty of an American statesman to aid in every way the construction of matching vessels. Without them we are at a disadvantage in peace and weak in war. A lot of work is being done to give us that strength in our fleet ships of which Mr. Coolidge speaks. Let it go on—New York Herald

PARTY IN MERCHANT SHIPS

We would in the language of the naval gun men be given a direct hit when in full in their tanks that public interest in the merchant navy has never been sufficiently strong and that parity in merchant ships is only less important than in ships in warships. We should be said make the necessary sacrifice to secure it.

The uncharitable truth of these statements is doubtless the lessons of recent history. When the war broke out we were about a fifth per cent of our commerce in our own hands with the result that we were dependent on the good will of our friends in warships to take the orders whether we liked it or not. This almost complete lack of maritime independence was undoubtedly a big factor in leading us into the war. On the other hand we may be drawn in again. As Mr. Coolidge said we could do a something to keep it. According to him our vessels today carry some forty per cent of our trade. But we are thus dependent on our competitors to carry that same per cent of our trade. Of course it is to be hoped that they help themselves and help us but our inferiority works great harm in terms of peace in time of war it may well be a fatal weapon.

Assuming that at the expiration of the London treaty we attain fleet parity with Great Britain
we will be to that greater parity—parity in sea power? At present the British in re-

Wrong Diet for Baby?

BY ROYAL S. COLEND, M.D.

Some ailments of infancy and childhood are really terrifying. Convulsions is one of them. It strikes terror to a mother's heart.

Convulsions in an infant under one year is a condition that is serious than in older children. It is up to the age of three it should not be regarded lightly. It rarely attacks a child till the sixth or seventh year.

The attack comes on suddenly. In the first the arms and legs become stiff the eyes roll up the breathing ceases stop. The head is brought back and the body is rigid.

In a spasm occurs in the legs and arms. There is distortion of the muscles of the face. The whole body appears to be in continual movement.

In a few minutes the attack is over. Let it not come back again.

In the case of an infant a form of fever may be followed by convulsions.

Not only high fever but anemia exhaustion and various toxic conditions of the system may bring on convulsions. Certain brain ailments may be ushered in with the symptom.

Most of the common ailments of babies may be traced to wrong feeding. Convulsions are a very likely result of it. Gestation. Cerebrated milk or other indigestible substance can produce this trouble.

If an attack appears the best thing to do is to call a doctor. Until he comes you must do something to draw the blood from the head to the extremities. This may be accomplished by immerging the child in a bath of warm water or soak the child up in a tub of warm water without hot water of course. You must be very careful about having the water warmer than the body temperature but not hot enough to add the child extremely crucial about this.

Place the child in the bathtub being careful to keep the head above water. Apply cold water or ice pads to the head. The idea is to keep the head cool and the body warm.

Rectal enemas should be given as to empty
the bowels.

In an attack of convulsions there are three things to remember—first send for a doctor second place the child up to the neck in warm water the third cold compresses or ice pads to the head.

Your child's health is of the greatest importance.

The cold baths must be right. A mother must always be vigil as to whether small child puts its mouth in cold water or ice pads will cause the youngster to escape convulsions. Copyright 1930

Miss Lucy Gardner Becomes Bride of W. C. Sawyer Today

BY CLAD St. Paul's Episcopal church was the scene of one of the last weddings of the year when Miss Lucy Bryan Gardner, daughter of Mr. John Millard Gardner of 203 South Greenwood street, became the bride of Warren Curtis Sawyer, son of Dr. and Mrs. Carl W. Sawyer of White Oaks at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. The ceremony was read by Rev. Paul Due of Delaware in the presence of 200 guests.

The beautiful simplicity of the church was enhanced with flowers and greenery. The chancel was banked with palms and lighted with tapers held in candelabra. Baskets of flowers adorned the chancel railing and at each side of the entrance was a wicker basket filled with Queen Anne's lace in panel shades, larkspur, pink and white asters. Clusters of similar festooned the windows and the pews were marked with pink gladioli tied with white ruffles. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Frederick G. Gardner, aunt of the bride, played a short program of organ music and during the service played a group of love songs. For the processional she played "The Wedding March" from "Love's Labour's" and for the recessional, Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Frederick L. Gardner, and was lovely in a wedding gown fashioned in a French model of ivory moulle de rose made with fitted waist and the skirt was formed of wide flounces arranged in three tiers. The long sleeves of the gown were finished at the hand with narrow ruffles. Her soft of rose point lace, a family heirloom worn by the bride's mother for her wedding, was fastened in a cap shape caught across the back with a wreath of orange blossoms and fell in a train. Her slippers were of an ivory shade matching the wedding gown. Her flowers were a shower bouquet of white roses.

FAIR OPENS NEXT WEEK

Ashley Board Anticipates One of Most Successful Expositions.

Special To The Star

ASHLEY, Aug. 2—With the opening of the Ashley fair next Wednesday fair directors anticipate the fair's most successful year. The exhibits are extensive and interesting and the number and quality of the race horses are far above the average.

The amusements have been chosen to provide entertainment for all. A number of new features have been arranged. Parking space has been provided in the center of the race track.

Among the notables at the fair on Thursday will be George White, of Marietta candidate for governor who will speak from the judges stand at 1:30 p.m. and W. W. Durbin candidate for U. S. senator. Mr. Durbin is from Kenton. Other speakers will be present.

A unique feature of the Ashley and Junior fairs will be the cow calling contest Aug. 6, 7 and 8. A handsome cow bell trophy will be awarded the winner.

The rules of the contest follow: Any man, woman or child may take part. Volume of voice will be measured by the judges at 10 points. The emerging quality of the voice at 80 points the musical quality of the voice at 10 points. The appeal (in the imagination of the judges) the call would have on the cow at 10 points. Contestants are free to use whatever call they think best and will be given as much time as desired. Speech making however is barred.

Interesting History Woven Around 77-Year-Old Church at Westfield

Methodist Parishioners Contribute Both Logs and Land for Building.

MEMBERSHIP DWINDLING

William Doubjkin, 75, Janitor of House of Worship More Than 30 Years

On the highest knoll in Westfield 22 miles southeast of Marion in Morrow county stands a Methodist church that is in its seventy-seventh year. Confirmation of the Methodist faith in the township that eventually led to the erection of the church building, was effected 108 years ago.

Around the church and its vicinity older residents of the village have woven many choice bits of historical information.

Westfield township is now an area of 700 souls and the church has a membership of 50. Much of the glory of a century ago has faded from the township and the church. Ninety years ago the township boasted a population of 1,111 and the church thrived on a membership between 200 and 300 persons.

The decline of the church has continued in recent years dropping from 111 in 1916 to its present number.

Westfield of the Civil war period is recalled in the reminiscences of Mrs. Addie Slack, 85, Delaware woman. Mrs. Slack was a small girl living in Westfield when the 77 year old Methodist church was erected.

Logs and Land Donated

Land for the church site was donated by Morgan Lewis, Dr. George and Moses Clark, Park Higley and Wiseman and many others donated logs which were sawed in the two mills at Westfield. An earlier church stood on the hill on the Solon Grant farm.

Redication of the church was a big event in Westfield. Mr. Breeden was the first Superintendent. Mrs. Slack starts the history of the institution.

Two ministers were on the Westfield circuit at that time Rev. Burkholder and Herbert administered the spiritual wants of the community. From 200 to 300 persons were members of the church.

Use Large Lamp

The lower floor of the church was nicely furnished and all but special meetings were held there. Prayments and quarterly meetings were held up stairs. Large lamps were used to light the church and the building was heated by two large stoves which burned wood. Men sat on one side of the church and the women on the other.

Westfield sent three companies to the Civil war. Co. C 26th O V I to D 55th O V I and a company in the 121st regiment O V I were taken in Westfield. Mrs. Cynthia Ganger assisted by other women in the neighborhood made a calico and muslin flag about six by 10 feet in size which was flung from a pole at the cross roads. Around this the men were called to enlist at the firing of the muskets.

Industries of the neighborhood formed an Aid Society during the war. We strapped table cloths and sheets. Sheets were made of linen then Pickles were also packed in barrels and sent to the soldiers.

Newspapers were scarce during the war. Often times the news was not.

Had One Stage Coach

One stage coach went through Westfield at that time. It was the stage from Delaware to Cardington and was painted red. Occasionally an Indian passed through Westfield. Wild turkey and geese were fairly plentiful.

Mrs. Slack was born in Westfield and is the daughter of Edward Lerey and Rosetta Hickey Lerey who came to Westfield in 1810. Mrs. Slack lived east of Cardington for about 10 years prior to 1850. She is now living in Delaware with her daughter Mrs. Mary Shueyman and her brother Mrs. Lewis.

A flag that has remained in the possession of the church for years is an American flag purchased by Westfield during a presidential campaign in 1856 for a display in a Republican rally at Cardington. The flag, bearing 35 stars, is faded but is still preserved at the church.

Wife Flag Roll

An interesting account of how the flag was won is told by Mrs. Alice Ida How, 40, now of Mt. Veeda. She was a small girl at the time the flag was won and was one of the 6 girls on the winning float in the rally. Her history of the event follows.

Cardington offered a silk flag for the first display at a Republican convention held at that place, so my father Washington Gardner Johnson Durbin and brother Warden built a square and pyramid ship on a farm wagon. It seated 30 small girls all dressed in white with a gash of blue ribbon draped from the right shoulder to the left side belt with a tassel at red, white and blue ribbon.

The ribbon crossed at the hill and on an eighth of roses on the head plumed on the scarf was the name of a state of the 30 then in the union. A red number nine was Indiana.

There was a square platform on the top of the pyramid and on this Mrs. Benson Franklin of the Benson Hotel stood with a gold crown on her head and staff in her hand with her long black hair down her back to represent the Goddess of Liberty. As we entered the ground at Cardington I sang the Star Spangled Banner.

It was a great day for all of Westfield, especially when we were award of the handsome silk flag. It was ne cepted by my father Washington Gardner.

Today will open from 1 to 9 p.m.

HOME OWNING AID LAUNCHED

Hoover Inaugurates Plan To Promote Profit, Calls Conference

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2—Worldwide effort to remove influences which are depriving thousands of Americans of the advantages of home ownership was set in motion today at the direction of President Hoover.

Privately planned and with its studies directed at coordinate and stimulating private effort rather than attacking relief through legislation, a national conference on home ownership and building has been called by the president. A score of associations representing the majority of the interests troubling on the problem were invited to detail their chiefs as members of a planning committee which will make up the conference program.

Cities Financing Need

Mr. Hoover pointed out that financial conditions surrounding home building have been extremely bad and are particularly in need of adjustment but this he said would be only one phase of the conference work.

Greater comfort and reduction in cost of construction in many parts of the country through improved design and better layout of residential areas are all of first importance, the president said. The expansion and betterment of homes in their bearing upon comfort, increasing standards of living, and economic and social stability, is of outstanding importance.

One legislative angle which the president said needed attention however was the matter of metropolitan laws of many states which he said should be studied with a view to developing a more intelligent attitude to the home builder.

Mr. Hoover pointed out that during the past months of depression the rains have been so acute a shortage of capital for home building that this branch of construction has fallen off greatly while other forms of credit remained readily available.

The president said the building and loan associations have been of great service in home financing but were inadequate to carrying the burden without aid. The continuation of home building construction he said was a notable cause of unemployment on the building trades.

Secretary Lamont will head the planning committee and John M. Grace, chief of the division of building and housing of the commerce department will be executive secretary. The planning committee itself will sit the date for the conference.

One of the committee's tasks will be to appoint a panel to submit to the conference tasks to attack different phases of the problem.

J. B. BOB LILLJOFF
That K. of P. baseball team added insult to injury in their game with the Kappas last evening. Not only did they kick them in the face and other wise maltreated a good baseball organization until when the final score was submitted the Pythians were leading by the comfortable margin of 7 to 2 the Kappas were practically in the lead for the league championship and stand an excellent chance for never winning the same.

The Kappas simply made the old, old mistake of counting your pennants before the championship is won. And nothing was ever more of a probability than now than a Serv U Wel triumph for the Friday night loop competition. Strange things have happened to us as we make strong, if not to the fraternal boys and they needed about three times that many to subdue the impudent fifth players three in first.

The Pythians hopped on to the Honor Rank for three weeks in the first inning and then finished up with four in the second. They couldn't do a whole lot with Ross Rice after that.

A walk to Doolin hit by Bob Braden

Letter and Kellie, and errors by Rice and Wood were the explanation of the first inning. The final four came on walks to Kellie and Weld and moon doubles by Doolin and Martin and a home run by Billie Pitter. The Pythians got no many hits in the remaining five innings as the Kappas did the whole game but couldn't convert them into a score.

The first placers went scoreless up to the sixth when a walk to Marion Hinkley and a hit by Bill Wood scored one. The other tally came in the seventh when hits by Hinch and H. H. Hinch were combined with Kellie's error.

The Serv U Wel team got in trim for their about pennant push by showing out the prior victory of the season, vanquishing the Excavators 27 to 6. The Kappas went in early morning but the last and they were then forced to run the bases again. This error contributed no little bit to the losing four scores in the final inning. The Serv U Wel's have two postponed games left with Prospect and the other with Company B. Victories in which will be theirs with the Kappas for the league lead.

Tough Luck
Tough Vesta! lost the first tough ball game of the season when the Shovels defeated the Stars 1 to 1. Vesta gave up just one hit, a home run to Masque in the sixth and indeed, on base. Errors gave the Shovels three unearned runs in the first inning. Vesta, however, allowed just three hits and was given little support. The losers were held and a long stretch by Bob Kirtland. Vesta struck out eight men during

Yankees Looking Like Real Threat To Macks In Pennant Race

SPORT RAMBLINGS

BY BOB LILLJOFF

A NOVILLY team that was favored to have things all sewed up its own way has gone wrong again and once more the plans for the 1929 World Series that were beginning to take definite shape have gone into the discard. With reference to the Kappas' setback at the hands of the K. of P. team last evening and the ensuing situation the Serv U Wel Grocers met victories in postponed games to the third with the Kappas and they'll probably get them. However the Prospect Larcenians are one of the teams that have to play and it is always going to be hard to hand the pen to the fraternity boys.

The two contending teams have anything but fine opponents in their two closing engagements the Kappas' leading Prospect and Company B, the latter team however being sure victim and the Grocers meeting Shovel and the Stars. The Shovel holds one victory over the Grocers and may repeat while the Stars from down south are tough for us from time they're on tight. However we're predicting the race to end in a big old deadlock. What do you think?

A NOVILLY problem that has sport critics here up the proverbial gong is the sum issue to Harry Chapman in Cleveland. Several names have been mentioned but without any authority and trying to get some one to make a definite statement as to the identity of the new mentor is harder than trying to figure the Boston Red Sox in the World Series. We have one suggestion for the position a letter from well known fan here doing the marketing. Let's Cunningham is the one son that he would like to see in Harry's shoes and he says so in an uncertain tones. Well it's something to think about anyway.

Tomorrow will be the first Sunday that Marion has been without a regularly scheduled baseball game since the start of the season. The Shovel Athletic Association gave up the ghost of trying to sponsor a team here after last Sunday's game and one can't blame them a bit. Money lost on every game can hardly be in individual's favor continuing the sport here. It's a shame for the team was one of the best over playing under the local banner.

THE Industrial race is about at a standstill as it was on the opening day of the season. Shovel Club and 1st Roadmenders are in a deadlock for the lead with nine games won and then lost while Hinch is right behind. The two leaders should win their remaining games and end up in a tie with Hinch who meets both teams as well as Kellie who has two wins to his credit. In the next two weeks we can see the league pennant without the trouble of a fatigued team by beating all the teams this season out of the range of all possibility right now but it won't hurt to stick around and see just what happens. At least the next two weeks should be some real baseball.

Back to baseball
The St. Louis Cardinals again became the only club in fourth place by defeating the Cincinnati Reds 10 to 1. With Wild Bill Hallahan hurling a four hit game, the Cards did not let all the hits they made than come suddenly out of a fatigued team to the tune of 13 blemishes which holds the league's best fielding average, had an off day and four errors.

Back to baseball
Brooklyn held its two game margin over the Cards in resuming the old pastime of slugging the leather from pillar to post ending the afternoon with 14 hits and 10 to 7 victory. The league leaders failed to be in trouble for the first two in wins but Harry Smythe could not hold them long, what Adolfo Luque kept his steady hurling pace through the entire game winning his seventh victory.

The N. Y. Yankees and Boston Braves did the heaviest hitting of the day and due to Evelyn Land strong the Giants made their blows count for a 10 to 4 triumph than fifth straight. Land hit two home runs, a double and a single and counted 14 of the runs the wins were made 17 hits while Pete Dona had nine for the Braves in 10.

Back to baseball
Sulka, Salido and yet 17 is ready to go for the 500 meter swim at the next Olympic games in Los Angeles.

RUTH AND COLUMBIA LOU HAMMERING OUT HOMERS IN OLD FORM

However A's Have Nine-Game Lead To Go on, with 51 To Play.

BY HUGH S. FULLERSON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
With Harry Ruth and Lou Gehrig going like a freight train, the New York Yankees are looking more and more like the real threat to the supremacy of the Philadelphia Athletics in the American League pennant struggle.

The A's still have a commanding lead, eight games ahead of Washington and nine ahead of the Yankees despite the loss of a half game to the New Yorkers through their idleness yesterday, but 51 games remain for each team and a lot can happen in that number of contests.

Gehrig, Hot
It can happen especially when the Yankees slug their due's hitting the high notes and Ruth and Gehrig have been doing just that in the past few days. The Babe started two home runs yesterday after a laper of over a week since his last previous home run. He's trying to win a half game from the Boston Red Sox in a 1 to 1 victory. The A's also got up the Babe's 16 runs and 122 unearned runs of 1927 when he reached his present total of 89 in August 17 in the 15th game of the season. Gehrig took up yesterday where Gehrig left off in hitting, but more winning games, but he still is still leading the league in hitting and doing his full share for the 20th place.

The Yankees could not however win on the teams that are pursuing them, Cleveland in fifth place and Detroit in fifth each won a game and held them place. The Indians set the jump in the St. Louis Browns by slaking Cleveland's thirst for two runs in the first inning and helping the Indians to a 10 to 3 victory. Porto Rico giving the Marion boys a taste of real warfare early in the siege. Company G was called out on Sunday, April 25, 1898, and the call brought many of the men from near-by cities where they were employed. The call for men to recruit the company to war strength began the following Monday and resulted in the receipt of nearly twice as many applications for enlistment as could be used.

All Marion turned out on April 28 when the "boys" marched to the train which was to take them to Camp Bushnell, where they remained until May 15, when they were transferred to Chattanooga, Tenn. On July 21 the company left Chattanooga park for Newport News, where eight days later they sailed on the transport St. Paul, commanded by Captain Shuster, former captain of the Maine, for Cuba.

Many Yet in Marion
Many of the members of the company have remained in Marion and vicinity, others have traveled to various states and countries to make their homes and some have answered the last roll call. These last two groups will be remembered by those who gather for the reunion and in some cases letters will be read. Only a few of those recalled by James E. Messenger can be noted here. Corporal Ernest Boger's colorful career began when as a young man he escaped from Germany to evade compulsory military training only to enlist in the regular army in the United States. He saw Indian service in Utah and Nevada and upon his return to civilian life took up the occupation of a baker. He answered the call when the war with Spain broke out, serving as a corporal throughout. He returned to Germany before the World war, where

MERCHANTS ASKED TO DISPLAY FLAGS

In honor of Spanish War veterans of the Fourth O. V. I., which will hold their annual reunion in Marion Tuesday, Mayor L. D. Jones has issued a request to the Merchants' Retail Bureau to have each of its members display the American flag in front of their place of business on the day of the reunion. Although no general proclamation will be issued to the citizens of Marion it is hoped that as many residents will display the flag in honor of the veterans, Mayor Jones said today.

he married and now makes his home. Love of excitement caused William Johnson, whose birthplace was along the Texas border, to enlist in the company, where he served as a corporal. Believing the cavalry would furnish more thrills "Bill" transferred and at the close of the war went to the Philippines island in charge of a government pack train. Friends from home visited with Mr. Johnson about three years ago, when he made his home in Mexico City, joined in Detroit.

Frank Schuster of Detroit began his service before the war, having joined a Cuba Junta organization in St. Louis, for a filibustering expedition to Cuba, with a promise of big pay. Before the day arrived Schuster and several other Americans were captured by the Spaniards and placed in prison in Havana. Their release came with the declaration of war when they were ordered to leave the island. Through General Fitz Hugh Lee they were given transportation home, Schuster enlisting with the local company. Following his discharge he enlisted in the Seventeenth regulars and saw service in the Philippines and the boxer rebellion, coming through it all without receiving a scratch.

The Marion company boasted of two of the youngest men in the war, Harry T. Love, who is now deceased, and John F. Snider of Canada, bakers. Love was 15 years of age and Snider 18.

Among the many members of the company now living in Marion are James Cusick of Mary street, whose retirement from the city police force came after 25½ years of service; Dr. James W. McMurrin, who after practicing medicine here for a year, now serves in the Medical corps throughout the war. Staged Lieutenant T. E. Andrews, who spent the war represented the county in the state legislature, served one term as mayor of the city and at present is an instructor in the Ohio National Guard, and James E. Messenger, one of the city's best known druggists and former county treasurer. Mr. Messenger, a native of Nebraska, was a student at the University of Nebraska where General John J. Pershing, then a first Lieutenant in the Tenth U. S. Cavalry, was stationed by the government as a military instructor. He received his military training as a cadet under General Pershing and also was a member of his class in mathematics. Following the close of the war Mr. Messenger served eight years in the local postoffice and later conducted a drug store in West Center street. Mr. Messenger served two terms as county treasurer. Another member of the company was the late Fred E. Titus, son of the late Major Titus, a Civil war veteran.

Rousing Reception

right, when the shooting was said to have taken place.

No sound of firing was heard. Earlier in the night an ice cream vendor was held at the Williams' home. After Williams retired, however, he was awakened by the incessant barking of his dog.

"As the barking continued I opened the window and told him to stop," Williams said. I heard nothing else."

Officials believe that the woman was slain in the auto field. She may have fled from her attacker across the field.

Later yesterday, clerks from the Day Drug Co. said they had seen the woman in the store Thursday. They did not recall seeing her before.
